1971 Dedicatee: Mr. Tony Lema

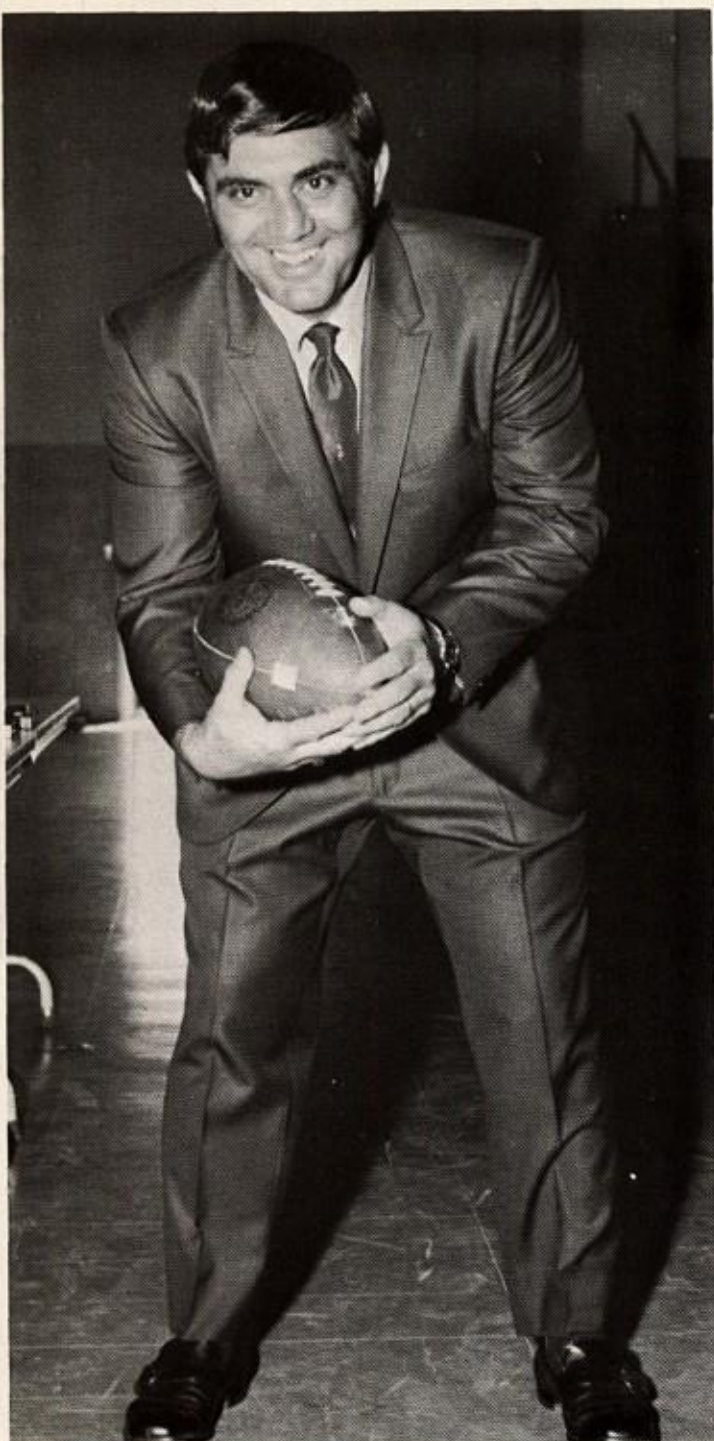

This year, as every year, the SPIRIT staff chose a dedicatee who they felt had contributed to Lindbergh and who had established an important relationship with the students. This year's choice, Mr. Tony Lema distinguished himself through his devotion to the students and his constant efforts to keep Lindbergh in pace with the changes around it. He was best known to the 1971 graduating class as athletic director and football and golf coach, but he had a great variety of experiences during his career at LHS.

He was honored with a football scholarship to Northeast Missouri State College at Kirksville and was graduated with a degree in mathematics. He joined the Lindbergh staff in 1958 and taught physical education and math and was head football coach and golf coach. Three years ago he was made athletic director and 1971 was his first year as activity director. In this capacity he again demonstrated the concern and ability that prompted the SPIRIT staff to choose him as dedicatee. For his ability to confront and deal with any situation and the interest he had maintained in the students, this yearbook is dedicated to Mr. Tony Lema.

Mr. Lema accepts the first copy of the 1971 SPIRIT.

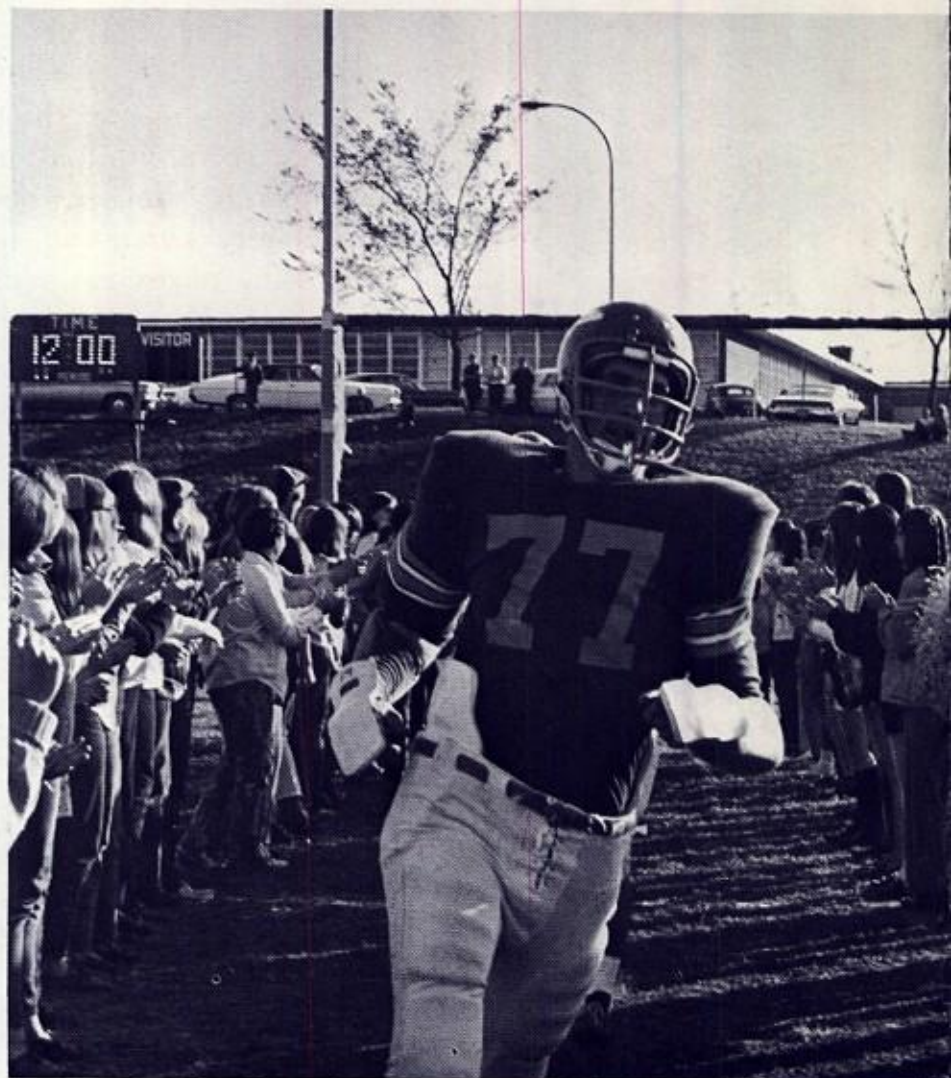

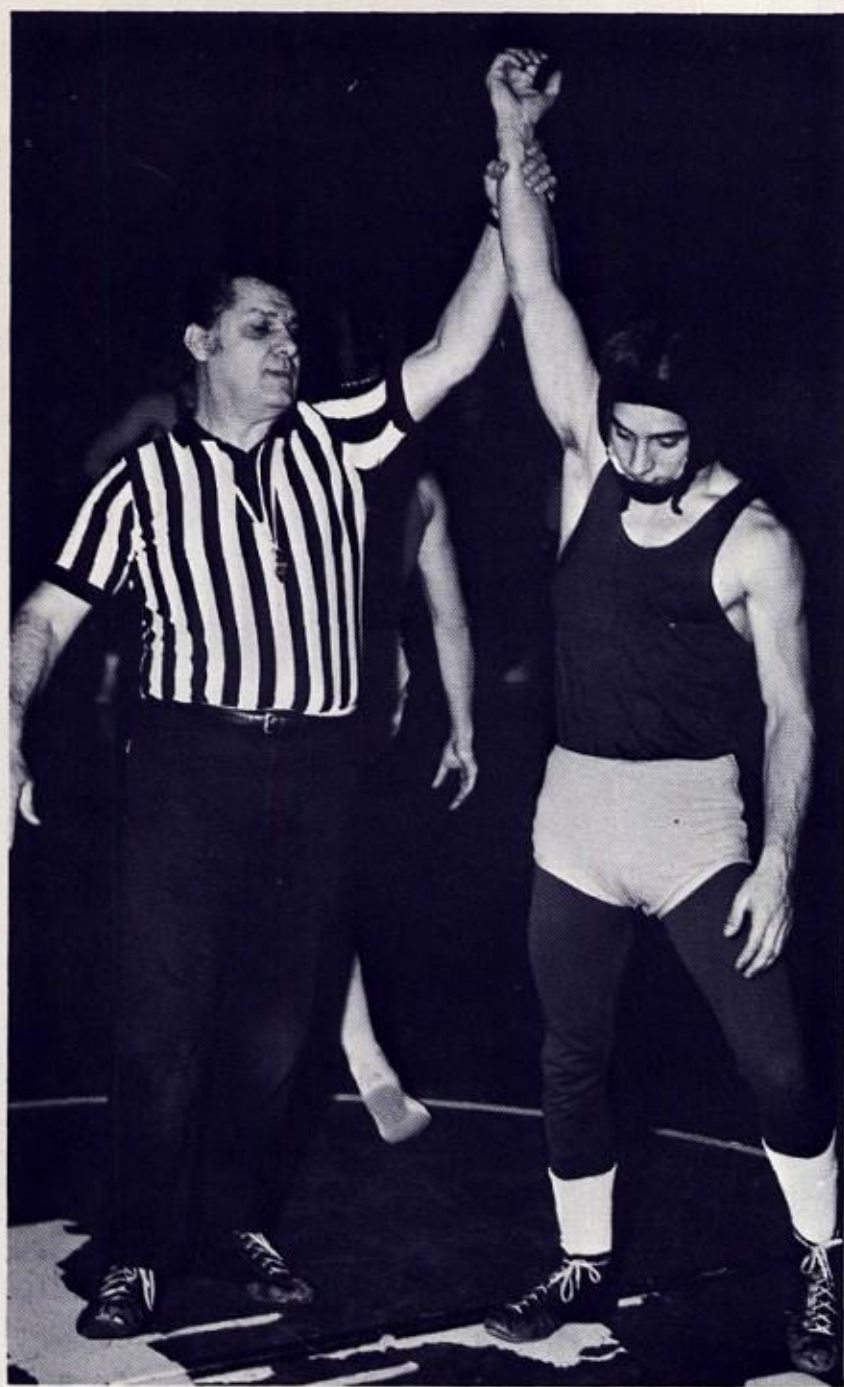

Mr. Lema laid the cards (and the food) on the table.

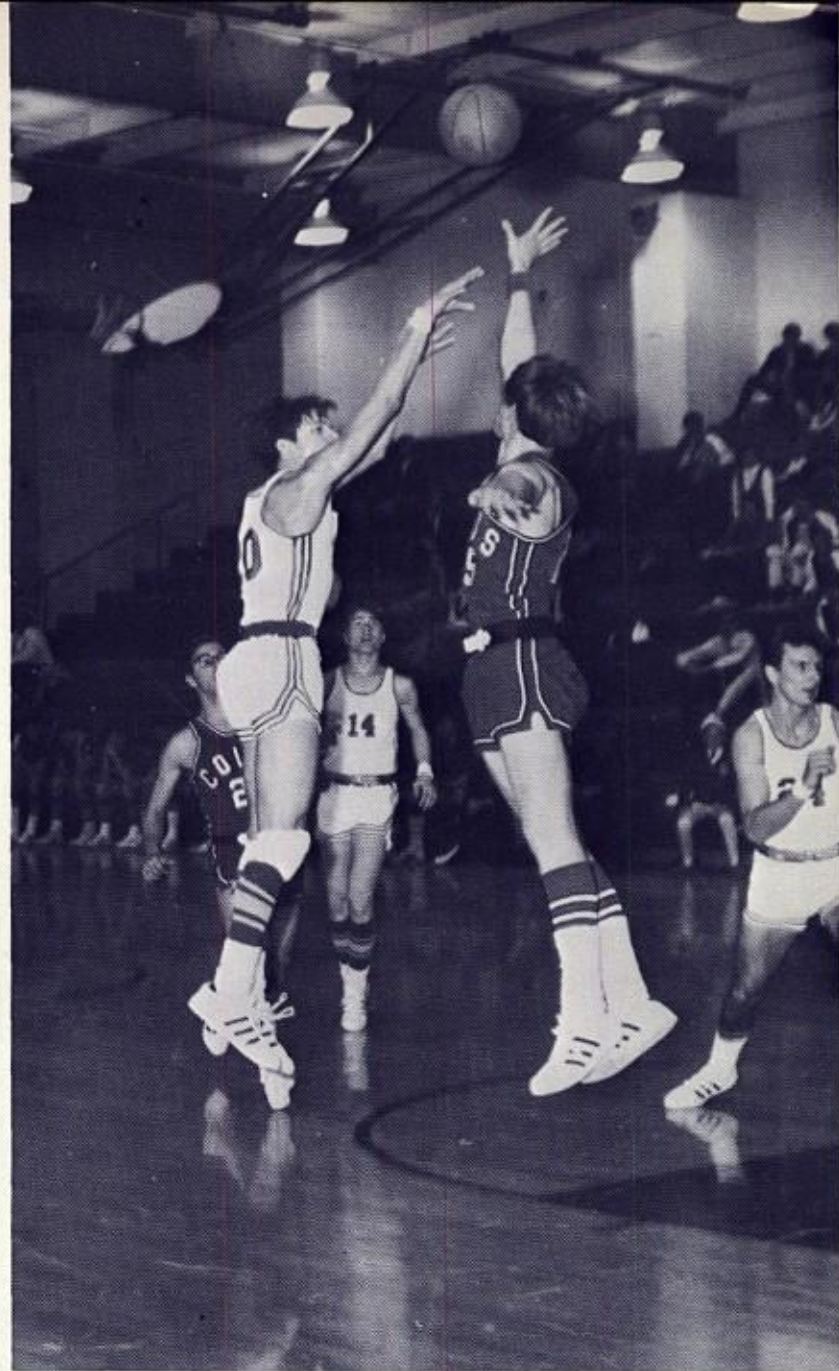

The Tempo Picked

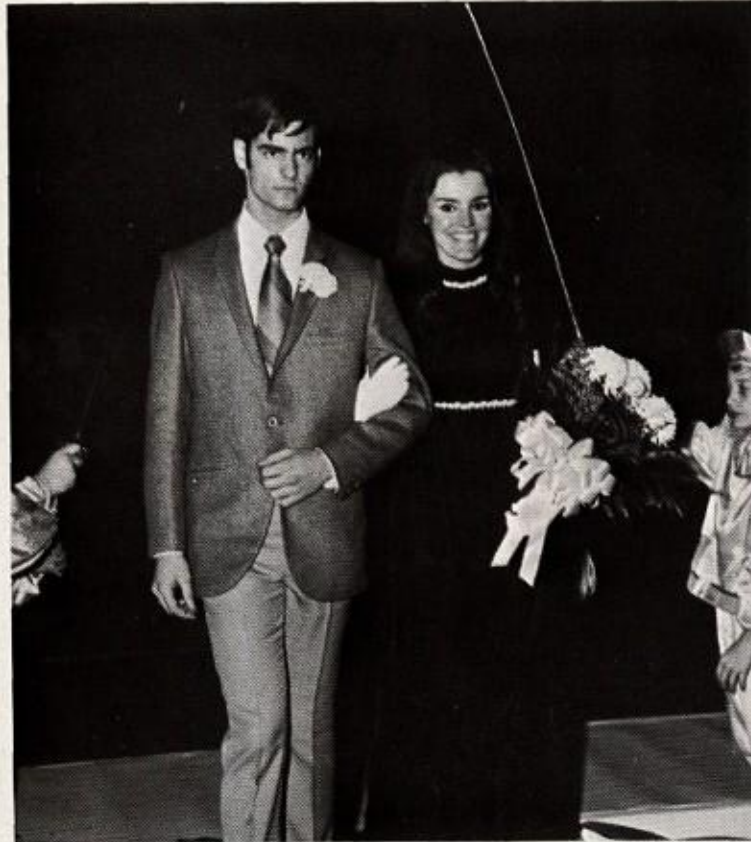

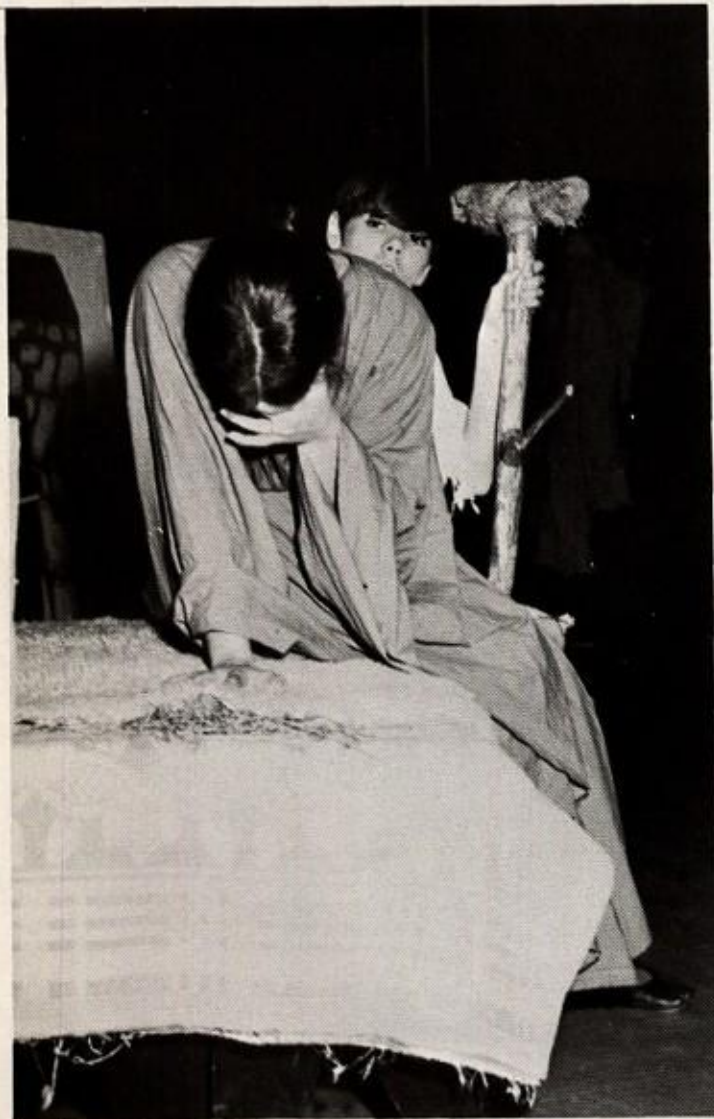

Up as the Sport Season Opened

From the roar of the crowd at the first football game to the solemn ceremony of graduation, a harmony of thought and action binds Lindbergh together. Each event fulfills an instrumental part in the academic, social, and athletic excellence that characterizes LHS. The following pages are a pictorial theme of these events which form the symphony that is Lindbergh.

Student Life

Overtones of happiness were audible throughout the past year as students harmonized to produce the plays, dances, and activities that comprise Student Life. Students found themselves involved in intense rehearsals for both all-school plays, Variety Show, and the first opera ever presented at a St. Louis high school, "Amahl and the Night Visitors." Two Spirit Weeks released the tensions that accumulated during the year. The dances also provided an essential part of the students' life at Lindbergh. Hangar dances touched the casual side while the formal dances and the crownings of the queens kept students in contact with the traditional side of life. In planning and organizing each activity, students were rehearsing for similar responsibilities they would take on in future years. The skill with which they fulfilled their duties would be reflected in their future performances.

Everyone wanted to be in the act.

"Who Was That Masked Man?" This question buzzed through the audience that packed the gym for each performance of this year's Variety Show. The theme was a typical day of television viewing; a melody familiar to everyone. Under the supervision of Mr. David Humphreys, the "TV Guide" offered everything from "Boob Tube City" to a fifties' version of "American Bandstand." Appealing to the kiddies (no matter what age) the show offered an Italian version of Romper Room on "Six Minutes." For those who enjoyed a late night movie, "Heaven Hop" was switched on. Between every act, as between each program on television, a commercial was brought to the viewers by the narrators. They advertised everything from chopped liver to deodorant problems. Behind the performers, a screen show depicted both serious and satiric aspects of each act, adding a different tone to 1970's Variety Show. Who was that Masked Man? A surprised audience applauded Coach Tony Lema on Thursday night, Mr. Tony Parisi on Friday night and Mr. Joel Beezley Saturday night when each unmasked before the finale.

*"You Can't Take

Tradition and change were combined in 1971's Spring Spirit Week. Senior gods reigned supreme on Monday as underclassmen yielded to their every wish, and everyone appreciated the Ice Cream Social held after school. Girls were on the look-out Tuesday which was denoted as Boys' Appreciation Day. Green and gold highlighted the scene Wednesday. Awards for the best costume, the biggest muscle, and the prettiest leg were presented at the Color Day Assembly. Girls discovered the sweetness of revenge Thursday when Dress Up Day and Girls' Appreciation Day shared top billing. Friday, students awoke to a Continental Breakfast sponsored by the Senate.

This year's seniors were always horsing around.

"Everything was coming up roses" for Queen Lynn Clayton.

The melody of "The Days of Wine and Roses" drifted through the Commons as the 1970 Sports Queen Dance began. Sponsored by the Pep Club, the theme was illustrated by three-dimensional wine bottles and glasses, a sparkling fountain and hundreds of paper roses. A manuscript of the title song on the Commons wall added the final touch. The highlight of the evening was the unveiling of Lynn Clayton as Sports Queen.

Ice cream cones, ferris wheels and bright-hued balloons helped to recreate the 1904 World's Fair, setting for the 1971 Prom. Side shows were varied and delightful. Couples had their choice of visiting the kissing booth, the balloonman or the ice cream vendor. Near the close of the Fair, colorful streamers canopied pretty maidens and their escorts as they revolved on a red-carpeted carousel. The evening's grandest attraction was the proclamation of Sandy Mueller as 1971 Prom Queen.

Administration

A symphony can never perform or function properly without carefully designed and well-planned scores developed by composers. The administration at LHS, consisting of the superintendents, the Board of Education and the principals, functioned similarly. Their composition combined the desire to satisfy the needs of an ever-increasing number of students with the wish to make maximum use of the available teaching facilities and material in order to create an efficient and effective educational system. Thus Lindbergh's composers provided their symphony with a continuous and relevant basis for the performances of 1971.

ACADEMICS

The conductor is absolutely essential to the success of the symphony. Without his expert leadership and vigorous hours of direction the various sections would never be complete. It is under his careful guidance and never-ending encouragement, that only the many instruments become united and are able to function together to produce beautiful melodies. Although often overworked and neglected, Lindbergh's faculty struggled through months of trying rehearsal knowing that soon each student would have to perform on his own, without direction. By regulating dynamic levels; introducing new moods; and keeping strict, but often flexible timing, each conductor at LHS strengthened and broadened each instrument's capabilities.

The number of students studying civics this year more than doubled last year's number, as did the need for teachers. This need was met with a dynamic new approach which prepared freshmen for their later history studies. Included in 1971's course were lectures; seminars, in which hypothetical situations tested students' powers to reason; American problems from drugs to burglaries; and activities that gave students a chance to run trials in court or even their own country.

Lindbergh's American History course gave students a taste of the United States on an advanced level, especially those in team. Students became acquainted with United States history through lectures and the opportunity to study independently. Through individual projects, students were allowed to explore "creatively," enabling them to break away from the stereotype course. Students not in team classes studied problems not only in early American History, but those familiar to us today.

Mr. Jones made an issue of contemptible papers.

The senior history department was composed of many courses which allowed students to explore man's journey through time. Advanced Placement American History classes examined the various interpretations of key periods in the history of the United States. Successful completion of a national examination can result in college credit. In contrast American Problems and Contemporary Issues classes investigated various problems that concern the United States today. Still another course, Humanities, studied the essence of man as expressed through various forms of art. In Sociology and Psychology students explored the behavioral sciences through individual and group research.

The goal of ninth grade English classes was to stimulate individual thinking and self-expression. Teachers hoped freshmen would develop a frame of reference through literature and composition. By using this frame of reference, the students realized the relevancy of literature to their own experiences in everyday living, and incorporated this knowledge in their writing.

English

The rise and fall of debating voices from classrooms, the squeals of muffled laughter in the library, and the stifled yawns of inattentive students—characteristics of the phases in junior team teaching. Each part of this program aids students in delving into English literature and history, providing a more varied program. Lectures, independent study, and discussion all contribute to the main objective—a well-rounded knowledge of English.

A new flair was given to the twelfth grade English curriculum as the mini-course system made its debut. Under this system the student could choose subjects ranging from Science-fiction to Shakespeare. In addition to the mini-courses English Literature and English IV were also offered. Under the direction of Mr. Conway, Advanced Placement English challenged the more ambitious student and prepared him for college English courses.

A Science Visitation Day was established so interested parents could actually see "learning in action." To the traditional Physical Science, General and Advanced Biology, Chemistry, and Physics plans were begun for a new course, Applied Chemistry, that would involve more laboratory work rather than theories.

This year's math department took unprecedented steps in order to tune in to the needs of today's students. Team teaching ideals, successful in the history and English departments, were extended to the math division. Four students commuted to Meramec Junior College to take calculus. Foreseeing a need for accelerated courses, the curriculum was expanded to include calculus as a fifth year elective. The program also offered various semester courses and an integrated Algebra II-Trigonometry class for talented students.

Amid strands of loose threads, overflowing cups of flour, and swatches of various shades of carpet, the Home Economics department again offered courses that were designed to make others aware of the importance of a woman's role in today's society. In addition to Basic Home Ec., in depth studies of food, clothing, interior design, and child development helped to create efficient and prepared women for tomorrow.

Fine Arts

Students enrolled in the field of Fine Arts learned through survey courses and by exploring various media which concentrated on art forms such as drawing, printing, designing, sculpting, working with ceramics, copper, enamel, and some graphics. This year, also, emphasis was placed on individual projects which enable the art student to pursue originality while developing his skill and creativity.

Music Department

The volume of the music department's undertakings steadily increased during the year. In the first semester alone, both the A Cappella and Mixed Choirs performed over sixteen grade school programs. The music department created a sensation in December with the presentation of "Amahl and the Night Visitors." This opera, the first ever staged at Lindbergh, was presented by the choir members in conjunction with the orchestra. The bands, too, played a large role in the music department at Lindbergh, with their many concert performances.

Speech and Drama Department

Communication is the key word today. It does not only entail a knowledge of a language, but also an ability to express ideas clearly, which the Speech and Drama Department strove to develop. With the addition of Drama II to the Drama Department, students were able to gain greater knowledge of dramatics. The Speech Department promoted a creative and imaginative use of the English language. For the third consecutive year, the two departments sponsored the All-School Play, this year, Joan of Arc; and a new tradition was started in 1971, the replacement of the Junior Play with the Spring All-School Play, You Can't Take It With You.

The way to a typewriter's heart . . . underneath it all!

General Business

To prepare students for participation in the business world the General Business department offered a wide variety of courses. The choices ranged from basic business law and management courses to the operating of office machines and processing. The traditional typing and newly-installed notehand classes gave all students the opportunity to increase the efficiency and accuracy of their work.

MRS. BETTY HILDRETH, Typing I & II, Sophomore Sponsor.

MISS KATHIE RUCKRIEGLE, Typing I & II, Shorthand; MISS KAROL FINLEY, Business Law, Typing I & II, FBLA; MRS. BARBARA NAUERT, Typing I & II, Notehand, FBLA.

Industrial Arts

Architecture, woodworking and general shop allowed students involved in Industrial Arts to experience different types of media. Learning techniques and materials were part of the program which was designed to acquaint the student with many skills. Along this line, activities included the designing of a product, theory in mass production, and exercises in solving industrial production problems. Other classes included in the department were Architecture, Machine Drawing, and Graphic Arts.

MR. GEORGE MARTIN, Aviation, General Drafting, Blueprint Reading; MR. RICHARD LEE, Power Mechanics; MR. CURTIS MEEKS, Woodworking; MR. MARVIN REID, General Drafting, Architecture, Machine Drawing, Engineer's Club; MR. WARREN HENLOW, Electronics; MR. CLEMENS GRUEN, Graphic Arts, General Metals, Camera Club.

Drivers Education

Practice and experience are both needed for a musician to perform to his fullest potential. Driver's Education developed these abilities in the student driver at LHS. Basic skills, habits, and laws were drilled daily. The use of simulators and the experience of "test-driving" encouraged the student to take the task of driving seriously.

MR. JAKE NORTON, Driver Education; MR. MEL BACHMANN, Driver Education, Senior Sponsor; MR. RALPH BROOKS, Driver Education; MR. DONALD BEE, Driver Education, Physical Education, Basketball, Track, Letterman's Club; MR. ROBERT YOUNG, Driver Education, Baseball, Football.

Due to the great success of last year's elective gym program a choice of activities remained open to the girls. The wide range of athletic endeavors from field hockey to modern dance found great support among the participants. The boys' physical education department retained the basic activities of football, basketball, and volleyball. Gymnastics and hockey were also introduced this year. Hockey soon developed into the most popular activity of the boy's gym program.

Guidance

Directed

Futures

The guidance office aided each student in composing his schedule for his future years at LHS. Two new personnel joined the department in this task; Mrs. Biggs, ninth grade, and Mr. Faison, tenth grade. A new program for counseling was introduced this year. Each class was assigned two counselors to provide greater assistance for every student.

Library

The library staff at LHS, headed by Mr. Donald Hurt, has been of invaluable service to both student and faculty members. Through their continuous assistance and guidance, students have been able to uncover the knowledge present in the reference materials. The library provided a necessary service for those at LHS.

The secretarial staff here at LHS struggled through another year of absentee slips, the chaotic early weeks, and adjusting schedules; although with the aid of the computer, the attendance system was considerably easier. With other daily jobs and tasks, they looked forward to their coffee breaks, and as the students, to the end of school.

ORGANIZATIONS

A musical masterpiece not only requires good direction and talented musicians, but also tedious hours of rehearsal in preparation for the final performance: a performance that shows the time spent practicing. As a virtuoso prepares for a concert, so do many students at LHS build a foundation for the future. Organizations such as Future Teachers of America, Future Business Leaders, Drama Club, Future Nurses of America, JETS, and Honor Society helped to rehearse students for careers in teaching, nursing, acting, engineering, and journalism. As the many hours of study prove worthy to the musician, the hours spent after school built the LHS student in a wide range of interests.

Susan West supported her branch of SPIRIT

Spirit Staff

A symphony of Lindbergh deserves to be remembered. To preserve the magnificence of the performance the SPIRIT strove to "cut a record" of similar excellence, one to be played over and over. The 70-71 SPIRIT portrayed each movement with its harmonies and discords. Each intricate interval was well-developed and augmented until a full-sounding resonance was reached. This record, synonymous of the tempo and mood of the year, is sure to become a classic.

Pilot Staff

As a well-rehearsed orchestra upholds a level of excellence, so it is with a newspaper staff. Each section of the PILOT was carefully tuned under the supervision of the page editors, while Chris Intagliata, editor-in-chief, maintained harmony among the staff members. The finished product was a journalistically sound and student-oriented newspaper. The PILOT staff advisor was Mrs. Catherine Harper.

Senate

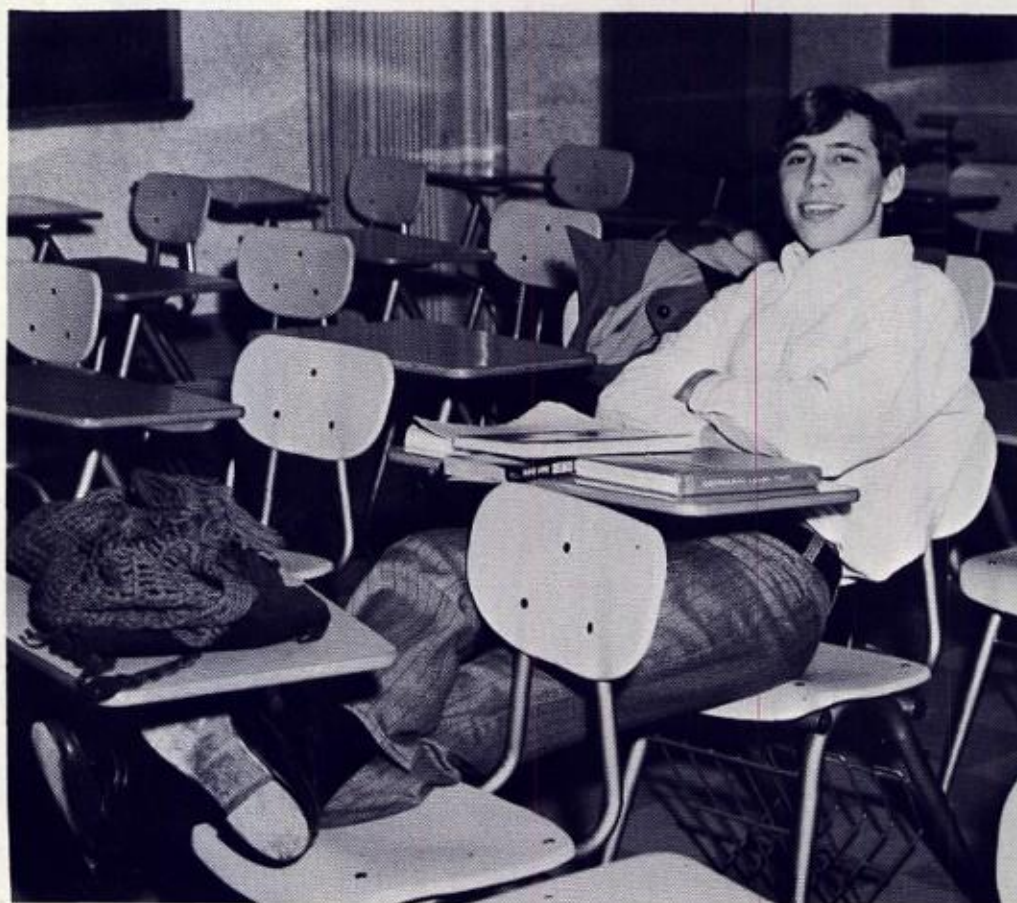

Senate President Sue Goodrich kept hammering away on Council affairs.

Student Council

House and Senate relations were up to tempo this year. Both houses were granted equal powers, and together, sponsored various council related activities through-out the year. The Snow Queen dance was organized and planned, and this year two bands were provided for three of the four Hangars, resulting in increased attendance. Both the Fall and Spring Spirit weeks were sponsored in addition to the Heart-O-Grams on Valentines Day and "Tuesday Night at the Movies." The Hello Day assembly, Music assemblies, gymnastic assembly, and Color Day assembly were finished, courtesy of the Council. They also participated in various inter-school exchanges and provided freshmen orientation for incoming underclassmen.

Mr. Leroy Amen addressed the Honor Society initiates.

National Honor Society

Active was the word to describe the 1971 Honor Society. Under the sponsorship of Mr. Tom Kallaos and Mrs. Lucille Allen, the Society helped to bring about curriculum changes and formed committees to investigate and discuss the areas in which changes could be made. They sponsored the first Honor Society carnival booth, and participated in an exchange with the Honor Society of McCluer High School. This exchange was planned to promote closer relations with the school and to exchange ideas on curriculum, attendance and activities. On the annual dress-up day one hundred and eighty-four students, chosen by faculty recommendations based on scholarship, leadership, service and character were initiated into the Lindbergh Honor Society. These new initiates boosted membership at Lindbergh to a record high.

Pep Club

Pep club this year promoted greater participation in school activities with primary emphasis on sports. Among the many projects the girls undertook to boost team morale were selling victory ribbons, furnishing refreshments for the teams and sponsoring the Sports Queen Dance. The spirited club was sponsored by Mrs. Carol Offenbach and Mrs. Mary Biggs.

Quill and Scroll

"From the candle of truth I light the candle of learning." This is a familiar sound of the traditional candle light ceremony in which new members are initiated into Quill and Scroll. These initiates are outstanding high school journalists who, showing high academic achievement, have made a significant contribution to either the SPIRIT or PILOT staff. Through the guidance of Mrs. Marian Heltibrand and Mrs. Rebekah Simpson, Quill and Scroll again published the annual literary magazine consisting of original works written by LHS students.

Make a wish and blow out the candle!

Creative Writers Club

Sponsored by Mrs. Rebekah Simpson, the Creative Writers Club sought to bring the ideas of others together. Through informal creative presentations, the members furthered their writing ability and creative potential. Many members contributed literary compositions and poems to be reviewed for the annual literary magazine published by Quill and Scroll.

Drama Club

The Drama Club gave new insight to dramatics under the direction of Mr. David Humphreys. Early this year, Drama Club sponsored the "Fantastiks", the first outside play to be brought to LHS, and two field trips to the Loretta Hilton. By participating in melodramas for the Spring Carnival, the Christmas and Spring Banquets, and the One Act plays, students gained further experience in acting. Drama Club offered interested members an opportunity to expand their ability to perform.

Campus Life Bible Club

Bible Club was among one of the rising clubs this year. Sponsored by Mrs. Elizabeth Krauss, it welcomed all students to a better understanding of life through sharing personal experiences. Regular weekly meetings were occasionally featured with guest speakers and missionaries, often accompanied by slide presentations and films.

Under the direction of Mr. Harold Horsley, this year's debate team proved to be one of the most outstanding ever. In order to always make their point explicit under the pressure of stiff competition, many hours were spent in research and rehearsing. With facts and substantial supporting materials they were always a formidable opponent.

Sponsored by Mr. Jerry Harp and Mr. Jack Harp the crafts club was one of Lindbergh's most active clubs. Participants expressed themselves through varied media, ranging from clay pottery to paper flowers. Among their many endeavors were their booth contribution to the carnival and various showcase displays throughout the year.

Environmental Problems Club

The Environmental Problems Clubs, guided by Mr. Weldon Cox strove to promote harmony between man and nature. The club's projects involved recycling of paper, an all day environmental assembly, the selling of EPC buttons and an information booth in the Commons. The club worked with the National Coalition for the Environment affording students a means to actively fight for a better world.

The Symphonic Band, conducted under the demanding guidance of Mr. Lowell Brunner, furnished a musical background to match the ever-increasing tempo of LHS. The highly-trained and well-disciplined band drilled in preparation for the many concerts it gave throughout the year, including a performance for the St. Louis Music Convention. The band worked chiefly on compositions that are usually attempted at a college level to prepare its participants for future musical challenges.

Concert Band

The LHS Concert Band was composed of students in the ninth through twelfth grades. The only qualification a student must have to join was the ability to play a band instrument. Under the direction of Mr. Lowell Brunner, the band augmented the sounds at LHS by performing all styles of musical literature at concerts throughout the year.

Stage Band

This year's Stage Band directed by Mr. Tobler provided the soundtrack for LHS events throughout the year. Twenty-five musicians selected mainly from the Symphonic Band performed jazz and popular music at the Variety Show and various concerts. The Stage Band added contemporary sounds to the campus melodies.

Orchestra

Under the direction of Mr. Carell, this year's orchestra added new notes to its growing score of events. One of its most important contributions was in providing the orchestration to Amahl and the Night Visitors, the first opera to be performed by a Missouri high school. The string section rated high in this year's Spring Festival competition as a due reward for their daily practice. Through the combined efforts of students from ninth to twelfth grade the orchestra blended together to a truly harmonious organization.

A Cappella Choir

The A Cappella Choir performed all kinds of musical literature spanning a large realm of styles and cultures. Sponsored by Mr. Robert Reep and Mrs. Gaye Overton, the choir's activities ranged from singing for PTA meetings to providing vocalists for Lindbergh's much-acclaimed opera, Amahl and The Night Visitors. Several members attended the music festival at Normandy where they were judged by professional adjudicators. The year climaxed with the annual Spring Festival given by the A Cappella and Mixed Choir in conjunction with the Middle School Choirs.

French Club

Who's the man with the funny hat?

The French Club was sponsored by Mrs. Marianne Gleich, Mrs. Margaret Schaper and Mrs. Cheryl Davis. The club planned various activities to aid in broadening the members' knowledge of French customs. The annual French dinner portraying a typical sidewalk cafe, and a trip to the De Menil House and the French carnival booth gave students the means to further their interest in the culture of France.

Future Teachers of America

The Future Teachers of America Club prepared students for their roles in coming years. Interested members worked as teachers' aids during their study halls and taught at the elementary and middle schools of LHS for one day. A meeting at Columbia, guest speakers and an FTA convention in the spring allowed the members to familiarize themselves with the present educational system.

Future Business Leaders of America

This year Future Business Leaders of America were organized to develop competent business leaders for the future. This organization helped acquaint the student with the business world. Under the sponsorship of Miss Karol Finley and Mrs. Barbara Nauert, FBLA had guest speakers, viewed the school's computer system, and financed the Spring Dance.

Boy's Gymnastics

Boys' Gymnastic Club was continued this year to give boys interested in this field a chance to further develop their gymnastic abilities. Their major contribution was participation in an assembly during Spirit Week. In one of the most popular assemblies of the year, the boys' performances on the high bars, horse, rings and floor exercise highlighted the event.

Pom Pon Squad

Under the supervision of Miss Yvonne Etienne, this year's Pom Pon Squad had a full year of activities with performances at many football and basketball games, presentation of a Christmas show at Jefferson Barrack's Veteran's Home, a clinic at Brentwood, and a competition at Cleveland High School. The twirlers, a branch of Pom Pons, also helped in service and leadership.

Sports

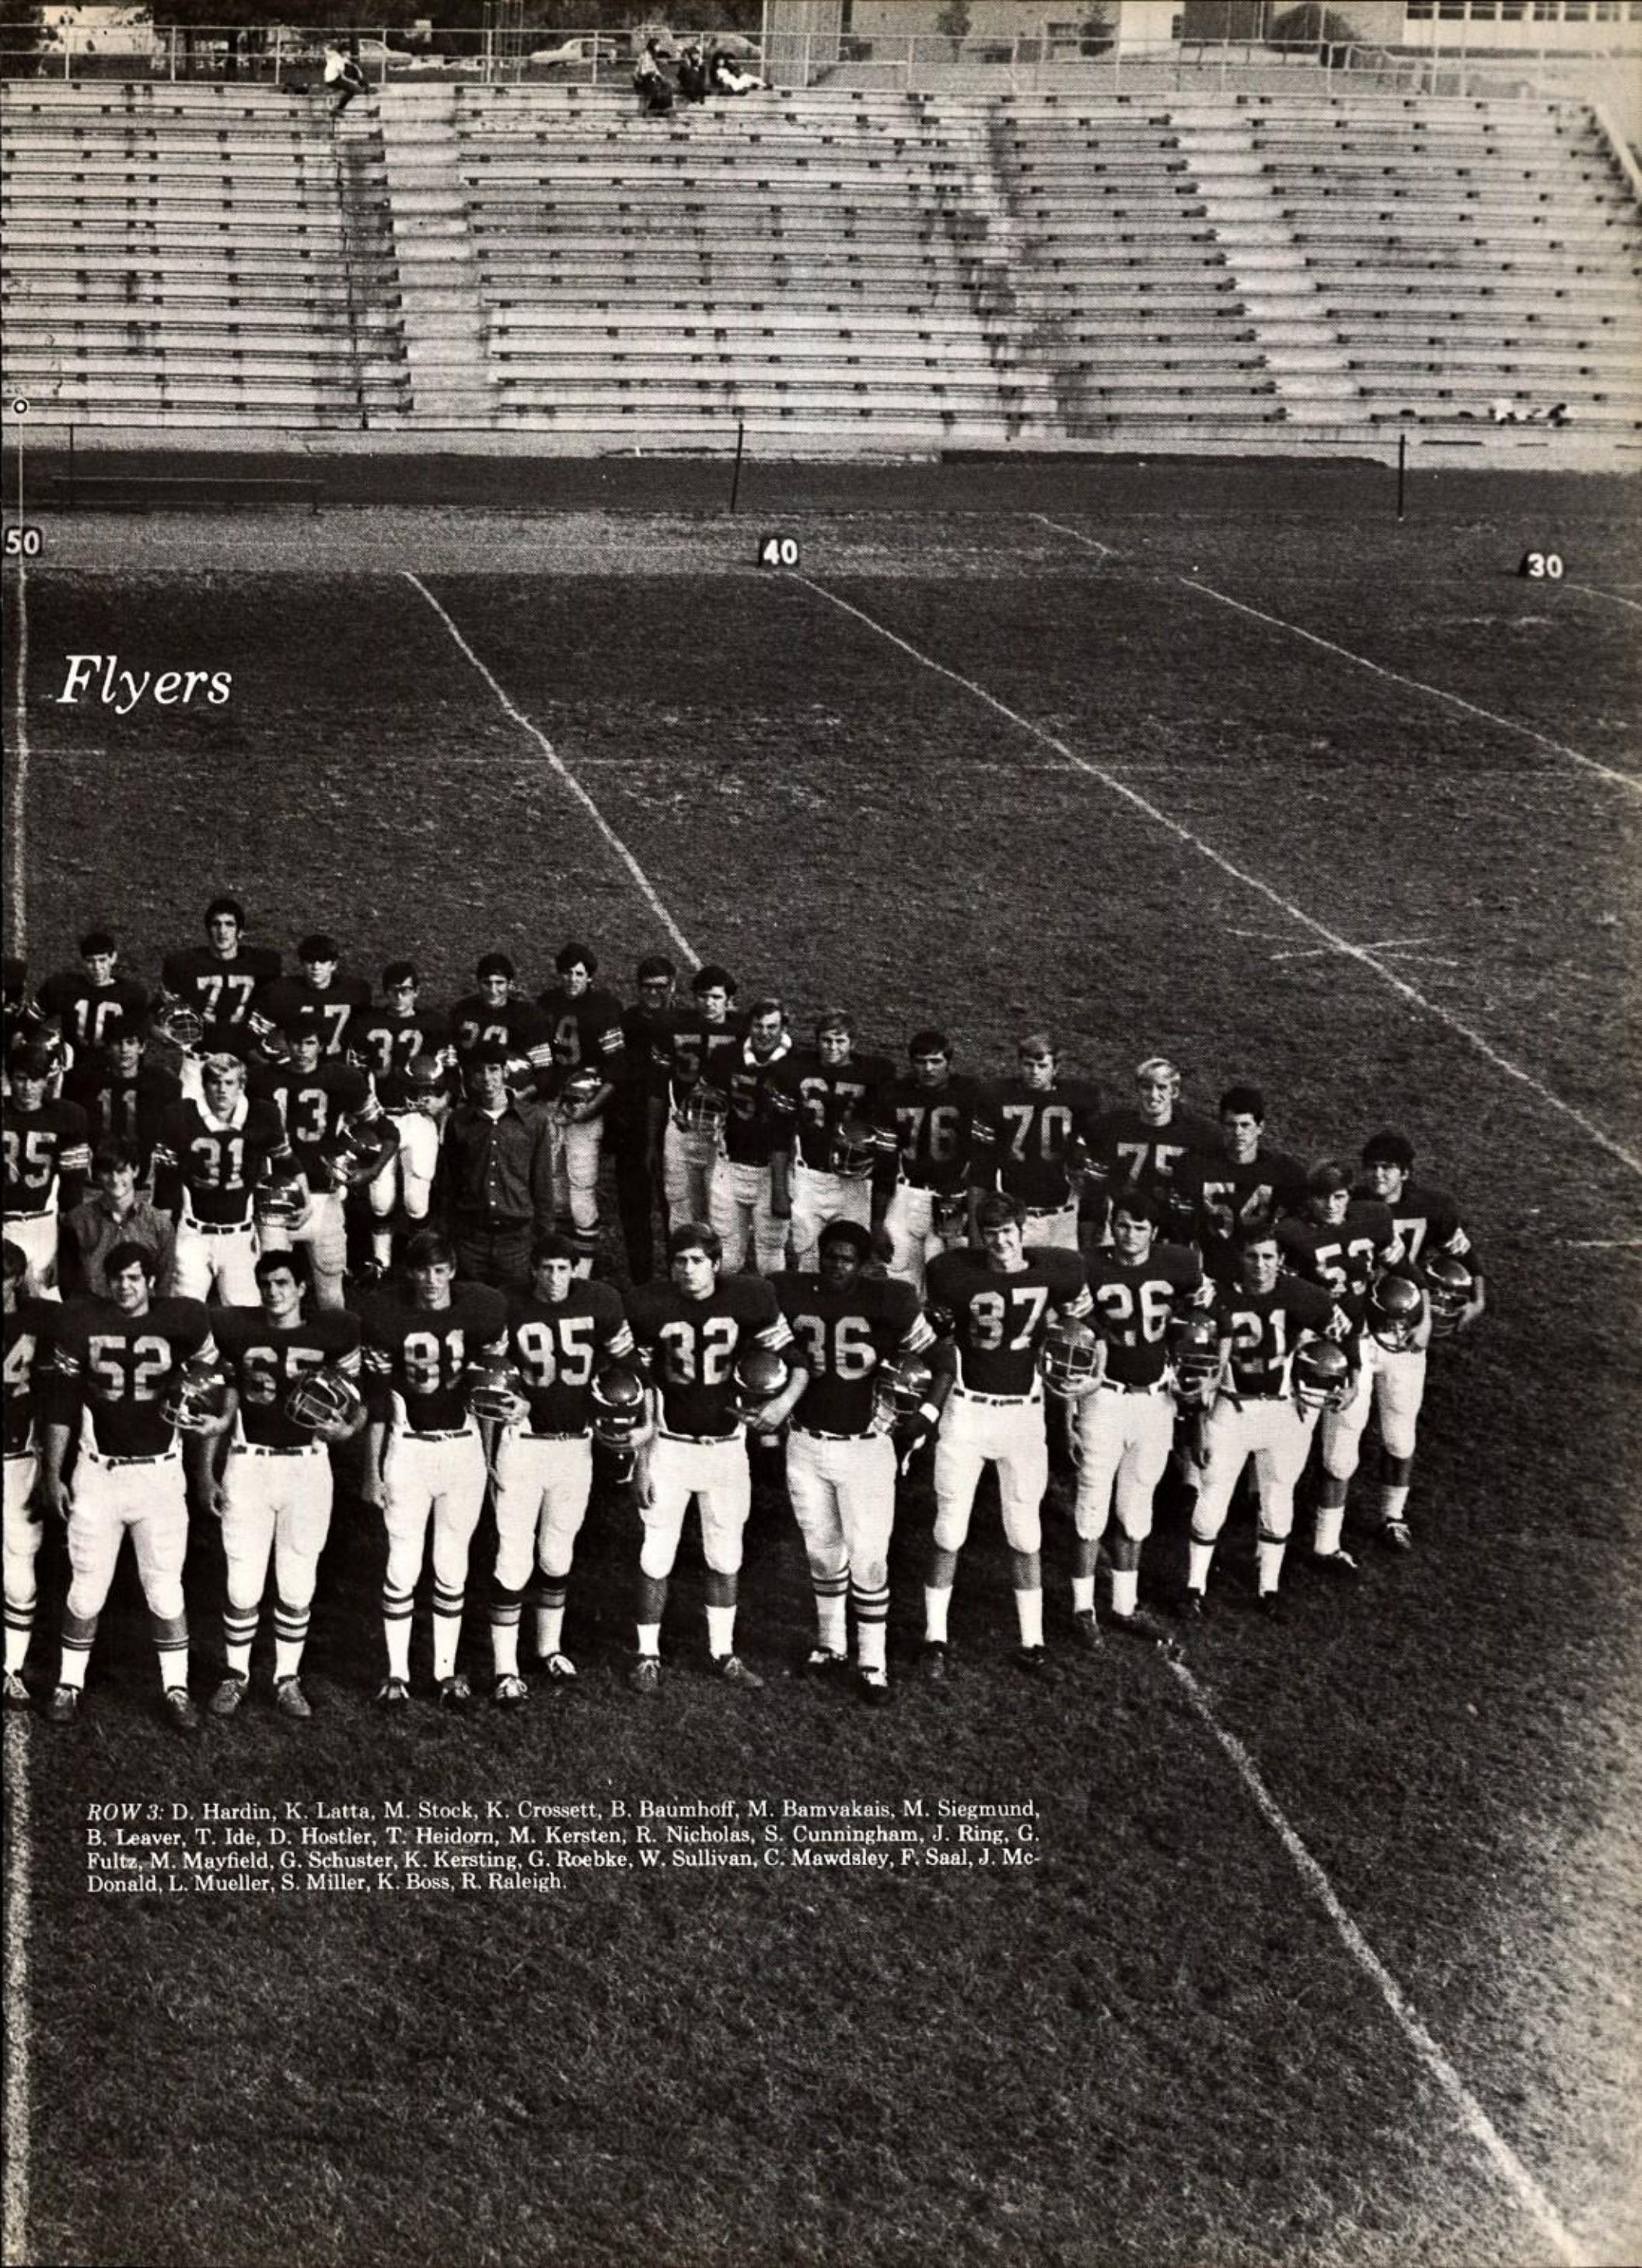

A performance can only be as successful as the rehearsals. Rehearsals consisting of pushups, mile runs and diving prepared the athletes well for their unique performance in sports. Each athlete was given the opportunity to solo in his individual field. Relying on the skills and plays learned in the practice sessions, the athletes were well prepared, not only for the season, but for their future.

The 70 Flyers enjoyed one of the finest seasons yet under rookie coach Tom McCracken. The Flyers posted a 4-3 record in dual meets, high rankings in the Invitational tournament and placed fourth in the district. The endurance and form displayed throughout the season was in tune with the spirited athletic theme "straight to the top".

Under the direction of Coach Richard Dell, the Water Polo team opened the season with high hopes. But because of the youth of the team and the unexpected injury to three starters the high hopes soon diminished. With a finish of eight wins and four losses, the Water Polo team will be well prepared for next year. Leading scorers were Joe Kreps, Ralph Crancer and Wally Bender.

Girls' Field Hockey was one facet through which LHS girls were able to display their athletic skill and accomplishments. Although hardly as well-acclaimed as the boys' sports, this segment of activity from the girls merited as much attention. Miss Barbara Young, coach of the team, trained, shaped and directed them in their winning season of only one loss.

Basketball

Flyers jumped to great heights.

Although the flyers lost most of their varsity squad, they displayed strong team spirit and the will to win, qualities intrinsic to the Lindbergh tradition. Under the direction of Coach Lou Lorch, the team clearly illustrated LHS determination and stamina. Along with this year's success, they look forward to future victories.

Swimming

"Oh come on Coach, I'm getting waterlogged."

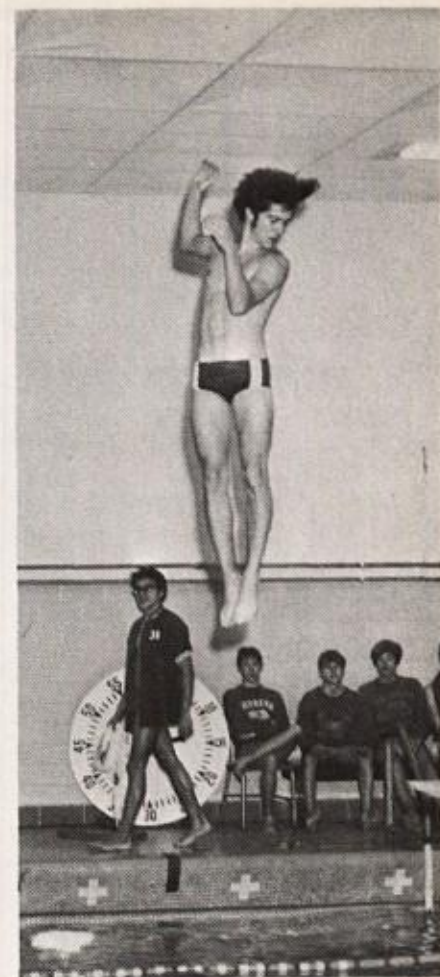

"How did I ever get up here?"

The key word in swimming this year was "building." Coaches Richard Dell and Charles Gately set out to build the team with weight training, distance swimming, and workouts twice a day. Eager to learn, the swimmers ambitiously worked to increase their performance, and their diligence paid off at every meet.

The Girl's Basketball Team has always been a favorite endeavor of female Flyer athletes. This year they went to many schools, followed in Lindbergh tradition, by a faithful group of fans, and returned with victory on almost every occasion. The girls were a high-spirited group, and worked diligently for many weeks perfecting their offense and defense. The record shows not only wins and losses, but also the ambition and drive characteristic of the team.

LHS Cindermen

"You can't tell me man can't fly!"

Another LHS cinderman comes to an abrupt halt.

Again this year, track illustrated traditional LHS enthusiasm and skill. Under the guidance and supervision of Coaches Alois Jaworski, Mel Boeckman, and Donald Bee, the diverse talents of the team were directed toward building another successful season. The long practice hours provided the skill that allowed the team to surpass previous records.

Tennis

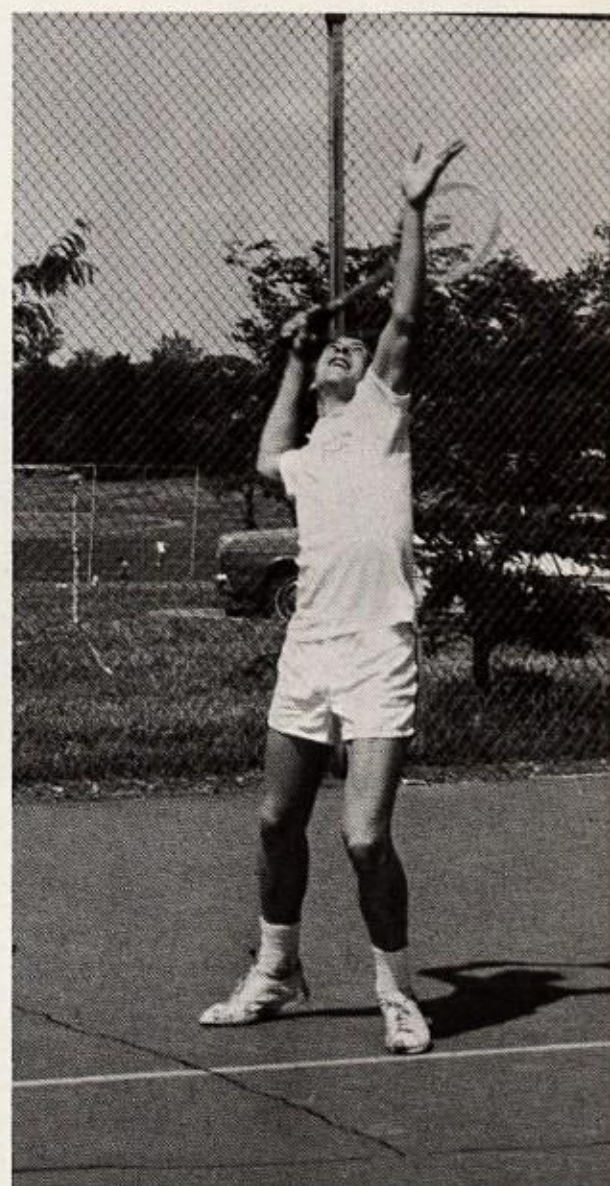

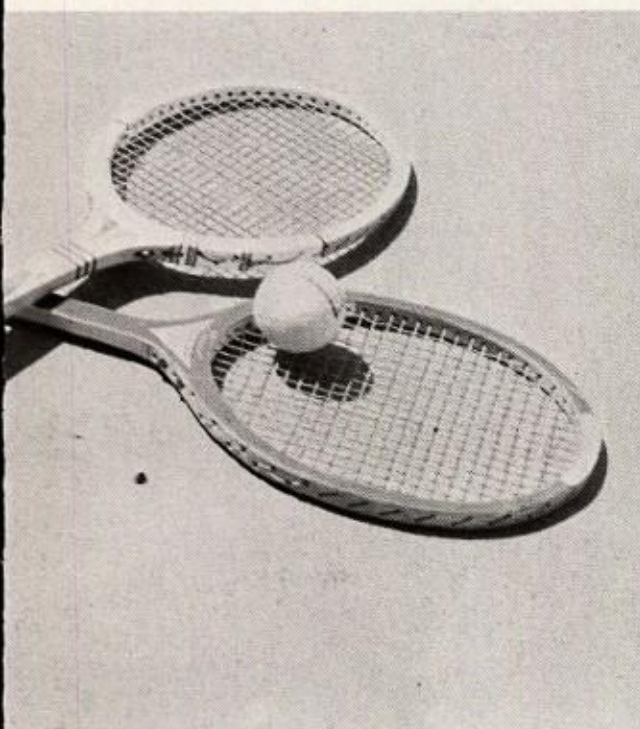

Under the direction of George Kremenesky, the tennis team volleyed its way to success in the state tournament. The team was picked after two days of basic try-outs, followed by a tournament play-off between the finalists. Because of bad weather, the team was unable to have matches until after Easter. From there, the boys went on to competition in League and District tournaments. In second singles, Glen Markwort placed second, and placing third in District competition were Glen Markwort and Jim King.

Junior Varsity

In support of women's lib, the girls' varsity volleyball team attained the title of "undefeated." Junior varsity followed close behind with only two losses. As always, they illustrated the feminine side of stamina and determination that always assures victory for LHS.

CLASSES

Without the musicians to play the instruments in a symphony there would be no music produced. This was the major role of the student at LHS, to endure the many rehearsals throughout four years of high school, rehearsals that would prepare them for a life of their own. As every musician has to begin with the practicing of scales, so did the freshman who had to adjust to the lectures and term papers that accompany several classes. The sophomores were equal to the more advanced musician, one who is perhaps ready for his first recital. They were introduced to team teaching and given a taste of independence. The juniors were almost ready for the final performance, experiencing everything from independent study to A. P. interviews. The seniors were the virtuosos of the four classes, the final product of tedious hours of practice, making the concert complete.

As the woodwind section of an orchestra bestows a fuller tone to each musical composition, so the freshman class rounded out the personality of LHS. Although first timid and high pitched like the piccolo, as the year progressed each freshman matured in his own way to produce a more mellow tone. Like all beginning musicians, practice and experience were necessary to make this transition possible. All types of media were available to freshmen through which they could rehearse for the performance expected of them in the next four years. Voting, dances, student government, team-teaching in the math department, and a wide variety of electives composed the score for the freshman year. After nine months of grueling practice, the class of '74 was prepared to audition for a better part at LHS.

After a year of vigorous practicing and tuning up, the Sophomore "strings" were ready for their second performance. The once timid tones grew and developed into a melody unique to LHS. The Sophomore tune was composed of voting, an introduction to team teaching, participation in student government and a choice of gym activities. The tempo and rhythm of the Sophomore class strengthened as they keyed themselves to their next role as Juniors. With fond memories of an involved Sophomore year they progressed closer to the finale.

The Class of 1972 added a necessary touch to LHS as the brass section of an orchestra adds to a beautiful arrangement. As juniors awaited the last movement of the symphony, they struggled through what seemed to be an endless stream of research papers and books. The buzz book brought forth the strains of tradition as did the Junior-Senior Prom. Independent Study and Team Teaching broadened horizons. Upon the close of the symphony's third movement, juniors were fully prepared for the final transition that would carry them to the status of senior "gods."

Do you think they forgot there was a game today?

These Seniors were drama hungry.

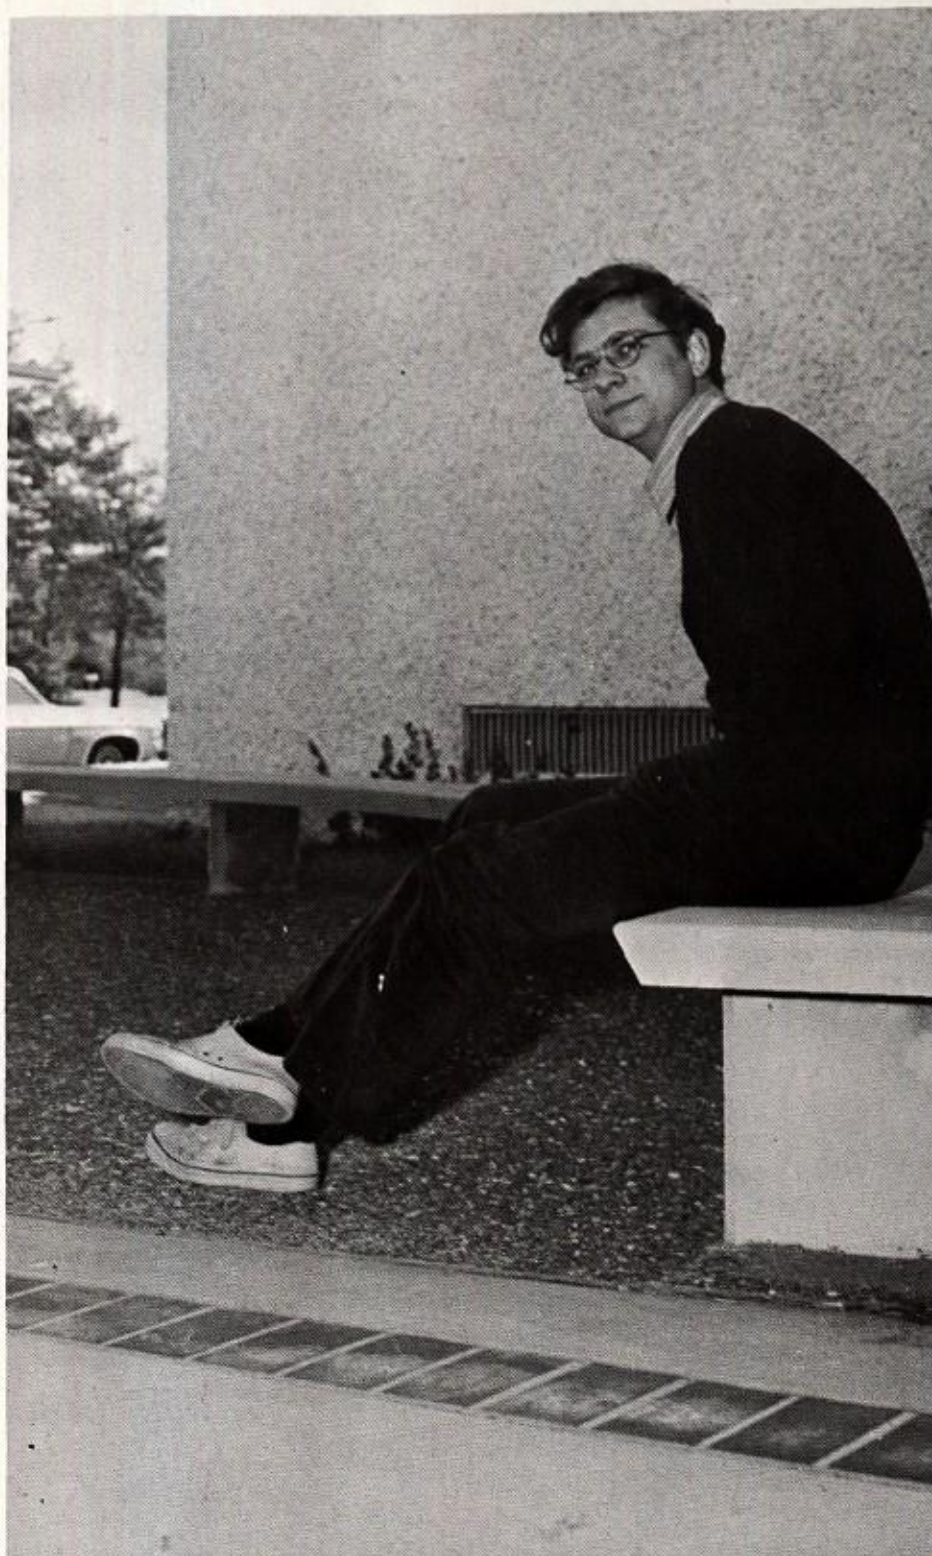

Senior Flashbacks

The first acute case of Senioritis.

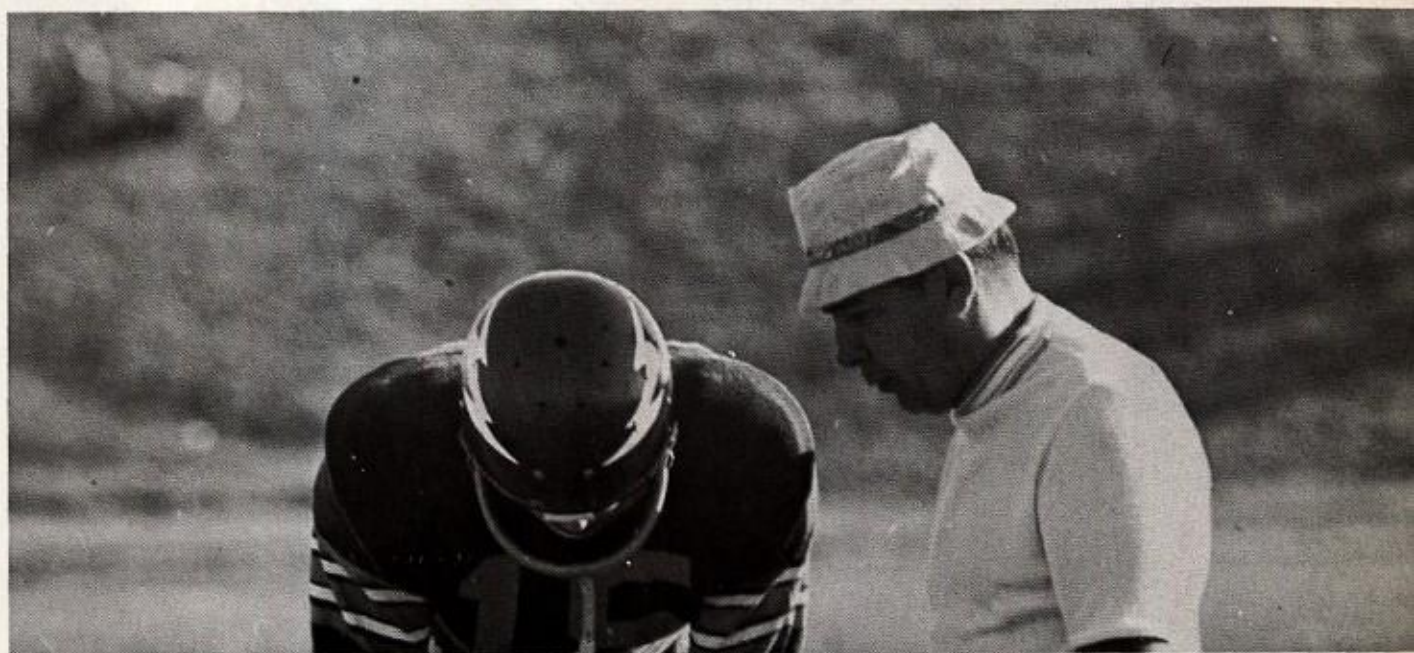

I think we have an electrostatic attraction.

Come on, show us those pearly whites.

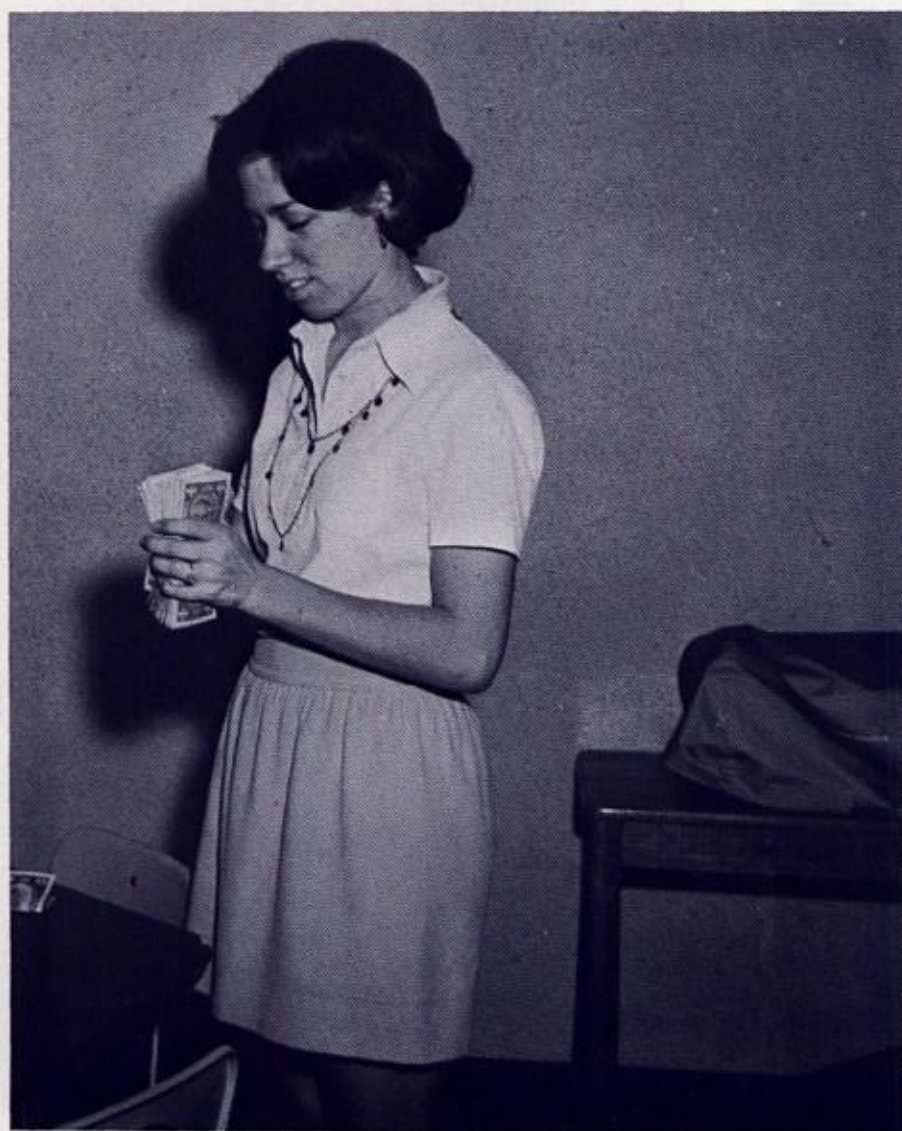

"Oh, quit crying and get back in the game."

Seniors '71

It's mine! I saw it first.

Seniors cashed in on their talent.

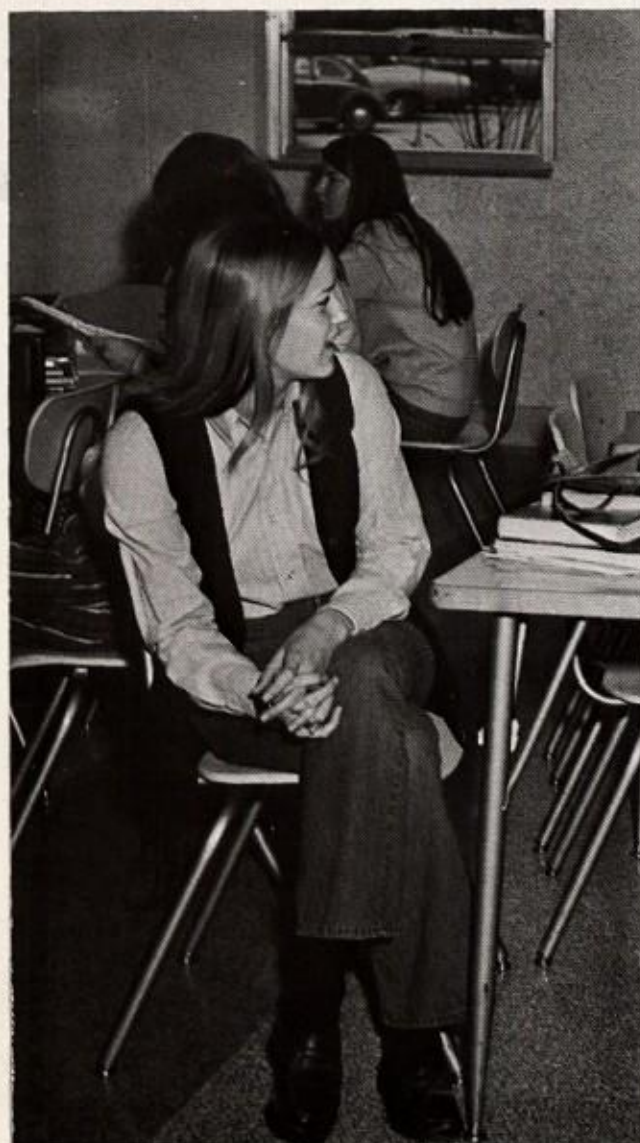

I want to take you higher.

Students were heartbroken at the news of the bus-strike.

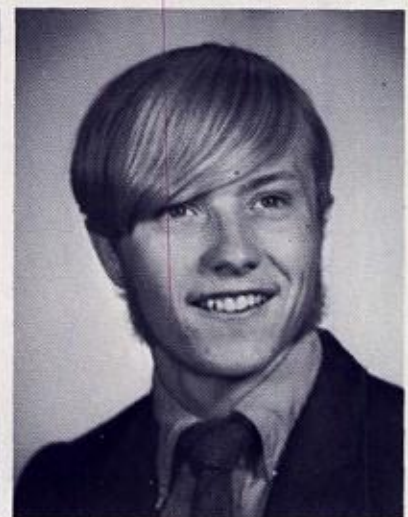

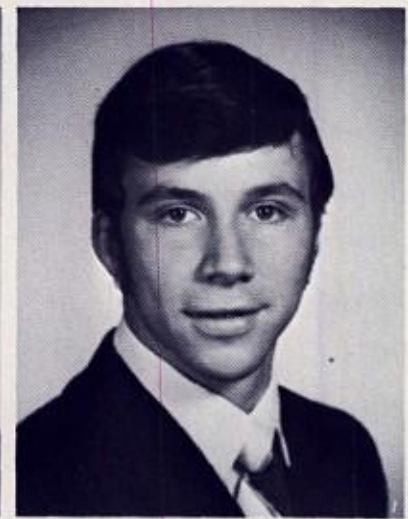

A symphonic production is as successful as its percussion section. Each of the other sections played an integral part but without the percussion section to keep a steady beat, the production would lose its depth and meaning. Similarly, seniors were present to enhance the orchestra of Lindbergh and to insure a rhythmic flow in all that progressed. All through high school, seniors had been called upon to perform in the events of Prom, all-school plays, Spirit Weeks, and the scores of clubs and sports. After four years of practice sessions, rehearsals and a long line of conductors, LHS seniors approached the grand finale, graduation, with a readiness to meet coming challenges.

Seniors repented (??) Senior Skip Day.

"Only one thing matters—
That wherever we go
And however we go
We hear the music of life."
Theodor Fontane

To Lindbergh Senior High School:

Recorded in the 1971 SPIRIT are the events and people that shape and mold the personality of Lindbergh. The SPIRIT staff has tried to accurately and carefully organize these events, and their help and cooperation is greatly appreciated not only by myself and the other editors and sponsors, but hopefully by the entire student body as well. The long hours spent in compiling the yearbook will rarely be brought to the attention of those who have bought it, so this opportunity is taken to thank the staff and all those who made its publication possible. I wish to extend personal thanks to each of the section editors, Juanita Close, Robin Conner, Jan Enk, Jan Latham, Claudia McClanahan, Debbie Newberry, and Sandy Takach, for their creativeness, imagination, and diligence. Also among those who have supported and aided the yearbook are Mr. Leroy Amen, Mr. Harry Swain and Mr. Jim Combs of American Yearbook Company, Mr. John Glassen of Bechtold Bindery, Miss Sophie Parashak and the photographers of Vincent Price Studios, Mr. Tom Sides, the PILOT staff, and the secretaries.

Finally, congratulations and a very special thanks goes to Miss Nancy Wolf and Mrs. Susan Kane for their friendship and guidance on this their first SPIRIT. Without their influence, backbone, and optimism much of the SPIRIT and its staff would not have made it. I, and the entire staff, extend our hopes that you will enjoy this book as much as we did creating it. Keep up the SPIRIT!

with his companions, perhaps it is because he hears a different drummer.
Let him step to the music which he hears,
however measured or far away."
